MONONGAHELA MEN SEE GARBAGE PLANTMay Model Their's After Connellsville's New Disposal Works.*WELL PLEASED WITH LAYOUT*Beginning Tomorrow Connellsville Garbage & Fertilizer Company Will Make House to House Canvass Explaining Policies and Methods.

Representatives of the Monongahela City Council came to Connellsville yesterday and inspected the new furnace of the Connellsville Garbage & Fertilizer Company with a view to building one at that place. The Monongahela City Council was represented by F. A. Underwood and Alex McVicker. These two, with W. T. Gregg, make up the Sanitation Committee. Mr. McVicker is President of the Council. The delegation arrived in town yesterday morning and were immediately taken to the furnace. There they stayed until late yesterday afternoon. Thereafter they went to McKeesport to inspect the furnace there. They will return to Monongahela City from there. They were much impressed with the furnace here. Monongahela City Council recently appropriated $7,000 toward a miniature plant. Messrs. Underwood and McVicker said before leaving that the job would probably be awarded to W. K. Herbert, who designed both the McKeesport and Connellsville plants and who is now erecting the one here. He says that the Connellsville plant in many respects will be superior to that at McKeesport because of new improvements that he has recently had patented.

Tomorrow a house to house canvass will be made. Prices will be quoted and the operation of the furnace explained. The town will be taken by words, the first word being probably the one to be first canvassed.

FIREMAN DAVIS KILLED

Engineer is Hurt and Passengers Jarred in Railroad Wreck.
BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 13.—The fireman was killed, the engineer hurt severely and several passengers were shaken up last evening when the engine of a passenger train on the Pittsburgh, Monongahela & Southern branch of the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company left the tracks at Beego Station and turned on its side, dismantling it and derailing and damaging a baggage car and one couch. The wreckage caught fire, but the Greentree, a packet, passing up the Monongahela river, went to shore and extinguished the flames.

The dead man is Fireman Samuel E. Davis, aged 32, of Dravosburg, crushed under engine. The injured, Engineer C. B. Lott of Pittsburgh, jumped; cut and bruised; arms and legs sprained. No passengers reported more than slight bruises. The cause of the wreck is not known.

SHAW WINS OUT.

Claims Victory Over Joe Crossland in Fourth Ward Fight.

According to R. H. Shaw, the fight for the position of constable in the Fourth ward is all over but the shouting. Victory from the latest reports rests with Shaw and Crossland yet to be heard from. On top of this it is said that Crossland faces danger of being prosecuted for impersonating an officer, on account of several arrests he has made in Fullerton township.

Shaw said this morning he received his reappointment as Constable in the Fourth ward just Saturday from Judge Van Swearinger.

"I never quit work only through a little sickness," Shaw said.

When the Constables in their quarterly report a short time ago, Shaw says that he was paid and Crossland's was held out.

PREMIER ASQUITH BEGS MINERS TO RETURN TO WORK.COUNCILMEN OFF TO LOOK TRUCKS OVER*They Visit Butler Today Where Pope-Hartford is in Service.*SEE OTHER MAKES TOMORROW*Packard and White Fire Trucks Will Be Inspected Before Party Returns May 10 Meeting Friday Evening to Consider Results of the Trip.

The delegation of knowledge-seeking Councilmen left this morning on the Duquesne Limited to investigate automobile trucks. In the party were President of Council James B. Millard, Chairman of the Public Safety Committee, Cyrus M. Stoner, W. A. Bishop, John F. Kooser, C. W. Haddock and S. E. Brent, together with V. J. Clark and William Work of the Connellsville Garage.

The party reached Pittsburg at an early hour and left immediately for Butler. There the Pope-Hartford car will be demonstrated. Clark and Work being on the road, and so the merits of the truck are properly explained. The party will come back to Pittsburg tonight, going to Buddwood in the morning. The Standard Automobile Company's Packard will be inspected there.

J. R. Montezat and G. W. Wells of the Wells-Mills Electric Company will go to Pittsburg tomorrow to show the good points of the White truck. The party will return home tomorrow night.

A meeting of the Public Safety Committee will probably be called on Friday to discuss the results of the trip and to make a definite choice of which car to recommend to Council next Tuesday. Burgess J. L. Evans was invited to make the tour of inspection, but declined.

WILDCAT PRICESNow Prevail in Pittsburgh Coal Situation.

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 13.—In the Pittsburgh district yesterday run of mine coal sold at $1.85, an increase of 15 cents over Monday, and coke coal sold at $1.60. These prices were also quoted in the Ohio district; in the West Virginia district, run of mine coal reached the unprecedented prices of $2 and $2.50, with operators unable to supply the demand. The local situation is aggravated by a car famine. Operators who have loose coal and who can command "wildcat" prices, will receive another boost for there seems to be no limit to orders.

Coke operators could see no relief that would brighten the impending coal situation. The opinion is that there will be trouble in the anthracite field, at least. Neither were there hopes of a settlement next week with the blinious workers.

Miners out of Pittsburgh in the Westmoreland and Greensburg districts, taking advantage of the railroad rate, are receiving higher prices than those in the Pittsburgh district where nearly all coal is shipped west. In the former district yesterday 6000 tons was sold to, compared from $2 to $7 a ton, run of mine.

The non-united West Virginia miners are making all possible shipments to the seaboard. The situation of organized workers in the Pittsburg and Ohio districts is unique and endangered by the emigration of union miners to the West Virginia fields. This emigration is said to strengthen the West Virginia miners.

Yesterday there were rumors that some operators, in taking advantage of the "wildcat" prices, were slightly curtailing their regular trade. This action is set to tend to increase the coal among consumers.

The car shortage caused the greatest worry yesterday in the local district. Small railroads, it is said, prefer to pay demurrage to the Pennsylvania system rather than ship cars home, and consumers are keeping cars with coal on track.

Average Daily Circulation Last Week 7,083.MURDER TRIAL IS LONG DRAWN OUT*Prosecution of the Stinkola Brothers Proceeds Slowly in Court.*TRIVIAL CASES DISPOSED OF*Plants of Guilty Entered. With Verdicts for and Against Defendants in Several Minor Cases—Several Costs Divided by the Jurors—Other Notes.*Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Mar. 13.—The trial of the Stinkola brothers for the murder of John Tolpyko is progressing but slowly in criminal court. Because the witnesses cannot speak English, much time is lost through the interpreting of testimony. The defense was unable to shake the testimony of Louis Skarweski, who was an eye witness to the killing and saw the men sink a pick into Tolpyko's body. He was cross-examined this morning. The next witness was John Komicki, who related incidents at Woodsdale works when the murder occurred.

A number of trivial cases were disposed of rapidly today. John V. Guess pleaded guilty to a paternity charge. A sealed verdict acquitted Mike Preacher of larceny from the person of Steve Docot was acquitted of assault and battery and the costs divided between the prisoner and Andy Shloss, the prosecutor. Russell Fields was found guilty of assault and battery upon Mamie Bell and recommended to the mercy of the court. George Miller was acquitted of assault and battery and the costs divided between him and Joseph Williams, prosecutor.

William Johnson pleaded guilty to wife desertion and directed to pay his wife $12.50 a month.

James Barnett is now on trial for the theft of an overcoat. The assault and battery charge against William Johnson was settled. Nettie Hickman, a negro, pleaded guilty to selling cocaine. David Smith is on trial for robbery.

In the case of Mrs. Ellen Williams charging George Miller with assault and battery in the small court room the jury returned a verdict of not guilty on the charge of assault.

That resulting in the snow leading from the chicken coop to a house, chicken feathers and blood at the door, and chicken bones in the backyard are not indications of a chicken theft was shown by the verdict in the case of G. E. Buckbee of Mount Stoerling against Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, negroes, and Oscar Gus white, after a trial before Judge R. E. Umber yesterday afternoon. The prosecutor had lost eight chickens and four of them had been beheaded in the coop, where their heads were found by Buckbee. Footprints and a trail of blood led from the coop to the Johnson home and the charge was the result.

Russell Fields was found guilty of assault and battery in two cases brought by Mamie Bell in behalf of her 10 and 12 year old sons. The jury recommended the defendant to the mercy of the court in both cases.

Action against W. A. Griffin of Brownsville was filed yesterday in the prothonotary's office by Arthur Stephenson Company for a bill of $263.30 with interest from October 14, 1911, which is alleged is due. On October 14, 1911, merchandise amounting to $26.27 was shipped to the defendant. Goods to the amount of $26.87 was later returned to the plaintiff and due credit given the defendant.

The Banning Coke Company is also bringing the 76 ovens at the West Side store room and the power house. The remainder will make the trip afterwards in a special car. Solicitors and Light dressers are in attendance this afternoon, from all over the system, including the recently acquired territory, Waynesburg, Washington, Leechburg and other towns are represented.

The remainder of the time will be spent in formulating plans for the betterment of the service. Prior to the meeting a number of the visitors made a trip to the West Side store room and the power house. The remainder will make the trip afterwards in a special car. Solicitors and Light dressers are in attendance this afternoon, from all over the system, including the recently acquired territory, Waynesburg, Washington, Leechburg and other towns are represented.

CHANGING TOWERS.

New Building for "CN" Block Station at Davidson.

Work will start in a few weeks transferring the wires and equipment of the old "CN" tower on the Pennsylvania at Davidson to the new one recently brought here. The towers are portable and are carried around the country on flat cars. The old "CN" tower has been in bad shape for some time.

It will require about two days to complete the transfer. The new tower is situated about 500 feet north of the old one. The linemen are still adjusting the telephone at Everson, and Scottsdale on the new train dispatching system. The linemen are expected here some time next week. There are two towers to be equipped in Connellsville, "CN" tower at Davidson and "NJ" tower on the West Side.

WIFE BEATER ARRESTED.

Alonzo Rittenour of Rogers' Mill, Walworth, Hennepin before Squre.

Alonzo Rittenour of Rogers' Mill was arrested yesterday by Constable Chad Wilson on a charge of assault and battery and surety of the peace, made by Mrs. Rittenour, his wife. The information was made before Squire P. M. Buttermore of the West Side. The defendant waived a hearing and gave bail for court.

Mrs. Rittenour alleged that he frequently beat her and threatened her life.

SILK SALE.

E Dunn Offers Exclusive Patterns at Low Prices.

The silks we have on sale tomorrow morning are silks that are imported by Arnold, Constable & Company to sell to merchants in individual patterns. That is merchants buy these in one or two dress lengths so as not to have too many of each pattern and be able to offer their customers exclusive designs. We happened to see them when these were sold down to one or two dress lengths of a pattern and to close them out quickly they made us a price so that we could sell them to you at just the original import price, $1.10 the yard. We show a fair quantity of these but the quality and price should insure that they would not be long after the sale opened. E. Dunn,

LOOKING FOR LIGHT

South Connellsville Councilmen May Use Tungsten Instead of Arcs.

J. J. McCarthy and J. R. Reynolds, composing the committee delegated by the South Connellsville Council to see about lights for the borough will meet this evening with Division Superintendent George Brown of the West Electric Company at the company's offices. Estimates will be made on street lighting for South Connellsville.

Arc lights will probably not be used. The councilmen declared themselves in favor of tungsten lamps instead of arcs. Economy is the reason for choosing the tungsten. Arc lights cost in the neighborhood of $6 per lamp per year and the tungstens one-third that sum. The South Connellsville councilmen figure they will get three times as many lights for the same money.

At present lights for only the thickly populated parts of town will be contracted for. A special session of Council may be called after the meeting tonight to decide the question. The committee does not have the power to make a final decision in the matter.

Possibilities of Water Power.

There is a mad rush at Harrisburg for water power charters covering the various streams of Pennsylvania. The possibilities of water power are great.
The cost of installing the plant is not relatively great and the expense of operating them is practically nothing.
In this age of keen competition, every factor that reduces the cost of production is eagerly employed by the manufacturer.The basis of most power is coal. The coal trade situation just now emphasizes the value of water power;
it is cheap, constant and unfailing;
undisturbed by strikes and lock-outs;
it is fixed power at a fixed price.But there is not without its faults, and chief among these is the fact that sometimes the dams impounding large bodies of water give way and flood the lower valleys, destroying life and property.In starting a wholesale bunch of charters this week for power plants in the Allegheny valley, it was announced that the projects of the Pittsburgh Flood Commission would be unguarded. But how will the safety of hundreds of communities in the valleys
along these streams be safeguarded
from the consequences of bursting dams?There should be legislation placing all such dams under State regulation
from the beginning of their construction.
They should be built under the close supervision of competent State
engineers and should after completion and operation be subject to constant State inspection.The towns of the Beaver valley have joined in an agreement to build a common sewer for the conveyance of their sewage to a point down the Ohio river. It is not clear, however, whether it is proposed to empty the sewage in the river there or to treat it in a disposal plant. The former proposition would be economical, and perhaps this is what brought the towns together,
but in any event it would be interesting to know on what terms this arrangement
for sewage disposal was concluded.
There are possibilities for similar combinations in the Yough Valley.All the big lights of the West Penn

By Isaac of Yukon.

Nero made himself famous as a poet by one literary effort entitled the "Sack of Troy." As he did not become ruler until he was 51 years old it is not at the time he undertook to embellish Romual Literature,
the fact that he could rest off years
at that advanced age should entice curious young people to believe that they may become prominent sometime.Nero was a natural born poet but he did not become aware of the fact until the later part of his life. Most poets had a avow, small voice to tell them in their boyhood days that they were worse machinists, but with Nero was different. He devoted most of his tender years to machine politics—
such as getting out the vote, making his friends stand put and influencing courts and juries.After Nero had killed off a lot of his relatives and after a lot of bad
tattoo had started in the neighborhood,
he undertook to counterbalance the evil gossip with a poem.When the bard of the Tiber wrote
this poem, he did not follow any rules
laid down by Green's analysis or H.H.'s logic, but he just took a sheet of paper, ordered his neighbor to place
his rocking chair under the old apple tree in the back yard and then he
"dux in" on versifying.At first, the song writer had trouble to get the muse to stand for him but he whacked his fist down on his desk
and told the muse that he would throw his scouter through it if it got skittish.Usually it was customary for poets to stroke their front hair until bristles were started, but Nero lit his pipe and recited the words as the muse suggested.
In a half hour, he had the poem sandpapered,
the knots killed, the plumpies removed and the entire structure varnished.The "Sack of Troy" treated of indefinite sentences, motions to quash, contingent reminders, appeals, performance, widow election, writ of supercedas, rule on hairs, intestate
laws, trover and conversion, nisi prius,
tinkering, alimony, mesne conveyance,
striking the head, breaking the head,
knock it loose, a bullet, silver offering,
the pastor's donation, transfer of liquor, liquors and we'll all drink apple, blung blung, Johnny Bill up the boy again.There never has been another poem like it. It leaves Nero in a class by himself. Not only was he able to sing and fiddle his poem but whenever he was short of money he could take a lot of copies and go out and make sales. The poet who can sell his own poetry has been regarded by financiers as a dandy.CROSS-SEAT SETTLED.Adelaide Disturbers Decide to Pay Costs and Make Up.The cross suit of Mrs. Elizabeth Boyd of Adelaide against Mrs. Stanley, non James, and daughter, Eliza, also of Adelaide, and Mrs. Hanley against Mr. Boyd was settled last evening by the defendants in each case paying the costs. The information before Judge
M. A. Butterfield was made by Mrs.
Boyd, while Mrs. Stanley made information before Justice Lawrence Donegan.The costs amounted to about the same and both the defendants promised to be good. Both charges were ac-sault and battery.FOR RENT.The big lights of the West Penn

INCOMING STEEL BUSINESS BIG;
PRICES SHOW LITTLE CHANGEOn a Basis of 1906 and 1907 Prices, Chronology of U. S. Steel Would Be Over $150,000,000 a Year.With the exception of prices developments in the steel industry over the past week have been of a highly favorable character. While manufacturers show more of the same tendencies, but in more reasonable quantities, the movement has not advanced to a stage that would warrant one in stating that a pronounced recovery was in order. However, the Steel Corporation is buying iron from the merchant furnaces, which is always regarded as a good sign. In other words, it would seem that the steel mills were now absorbing all the pig iron the United States Steel Corporation's furnaces can produce, and that it is now necessary to draw upon outside sources of supply.It is probable that the United States Steel Corporation today is turning out more material than in the boom periods of 1906 and 1907, but the low prices being obtained for various grades of steel should not be lost sight of. The earnings of the Steel Corporation in the current quarter may run very close to what they were in the last quarter of 1911, but the profits will be on a rising scale. In other words, February earnings will be larger than those of January, and March earnings larger than either January or February.If the Steel Corporation was receiving the same prices today as it did in 1906 and 1907, earnings would be materially higher at the rate of more than $150,000,000 a year, whereas they are now at the rate of less than $100,000, 000 a year. After depreciation the balance available for interest and dividends must be in the neighborhood of $8 per ton, compared with $10.97 in 1910, $12.00 in 1908, $12.61 in 1907, $8.07 in 1904, and $13.25 in 1903.As a result of a much larger production and the introduction of economies in general, the Steel Corporation has been able to cut down its cost materially in the face of higher wages and freight rates. Had this not been the case the Corporation, on a basis of prices prevailing today,
would not be carrying its preferred dividend. The unilled tonnage of the Steel Corporation for the month of February will probably show a small increase, but this cannot be regarded as a very favorable development, due to the inability of the company to make shipments. Weather conditions were very bad and goods
billed in the cars could not be moved.
The result was that at the end of the month the Corporation found itself
with a great deal of material on hand,
and this in turn kept the shipments down lower than would have been the case under more favorable traffic conditions. Earnings in February would have been much larger had the corporation been able to make prompt deliveries against specifications.Based upon unilled tonnage on the books, the present mill operations
there is reason to believe that there will be little if any fall-off in production during the spring and summer months. If open weather develops the buying manufacturers expect that the Steel Corporation as well as the independent companies may be called upon to employ even more capacity than they are now reporting.The Carnegie Steel Company is particularly fortunate in the matter of unfilled tonnage, and there will be little if any shrinkage in its operations for six months to come.Charter Notice.FOR SALE—BIG BARGAIN IN

JUDGE RUPPEL HANDS LICENSE DECISIONS

Refuses 22 Out of 100 Re-tail Applications in Somer-set County.

LICENSE HOLDERS KNOCKED OUT

Complaints Result in Lossing Licensed Wholesale License Granted as an Experiment—Two Breweries Are Put Out of Business for Violations.

Special to The Courier.
SOMERVILLE, Pa., March 13.—Judge William H. Ruppel yesterday disposed of the applications for liquor licenses in Somerset county. Out of a total of 100 petitions, 72 retail were refused, half of which represented old houses. Two breweries and four wholesalers were also refused. All distillers' licenses were renewed.

We refund the cost of application, stating specifically the reason. The Windber Brewing Company, controlled by the Boilermakers of Pittsburgh, was refused because it violated the law regarding shipments to clubs.

There has been no wholesale houses for several years, but the court grants one at Windber, where there were five applications. The wholesale privilege is granted as an experiment, says Judge Ruppel.

Judge Ruppel requested the hotel men to form an association to cooperate with the court in enforcing laws. John Brennan, of Philmont, was elected temporary President and a permanent organization will be effected next week. After April 1 the bars will close at 9 P. M. and open at 7 A. M. instead of opening at 5 A. M. and closing at 10 P. M.

The following licenses were granted:

Retall—Addison township, James W. Rush; Benson, Ferdinand Sann; Berlin, Abram Albright, Charles Smith, Jr.; Boswell, Justus Volk; Louis M. Shultz; Ivor Thomas, D. W. ## ERUPTION CAUSED TERRIBLE SUFFERING

Baby's Body Covered with Large Sores. Seemed to Itch and Burn. Finger Nails Fell Off. Little or No Sleep. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In 6 Weeks Cured.

"When my baby boy was six months old, his body was completely covered with large sores that seemed to itch and burn, causing terrible suffering. The eruption began in patches which would open and run, making large sores. His hair came out and finger nails fell off, and he could not sleep. I could not eat, nor could I sleep for baby or myself. Great sores would come off when I removed his shirt. I consulted a physician, but nothing would help him, till a friend induced me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used the little Soap and Ointment and applied it about the sores. I could see that he was improving, and in six weeks time he was entirely cured. He has suffered about six weeks before we tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I have tried several other things, and do not know what I think the Cuticura Remedies will do that all that I claimed for them, and a great deal more." (Signed) Mrs. Noble Tubman, Durden, Mont., Jan. 23, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have afforded the most economical treatment for afflictions of the skin and scalp of infants, children and adults. ## ALL-RUN-DOWN AND GENERALLY MISERABLE

New Tonic Tona Vita In Use at Health Resorts
for This Trouble

Are you one of the run-down, half sick nervous people with which the country is filled? Do you feel tired all the time with very little vitality? Do you sleep badly and feel as worn out in the morning as when you went to bed? Is your circulation poor and do you catch cold easily? Have you stomach trouble and an irregular appetite? Are you nervous, moody and depressed?

These are sure symptoms of nervous debility. If you are struggling with this miserable condition, do not think that you can possibly do for yourself in taking "Tonic Vita." Our wonderful new tonic, that has the unequalled endorsement of more physicians than any other medicine ever before offered to the public.

Here is what the Rev. Gustave Fredrikson, pastor of the Evangelistic church, Center Street, Milwaukee, Wis., has to say of it:

"Judging from my own experience I do not hesitate to say that Tona Vita is an extremely valuable preparation. I have not only used it myself, but other members of my family have been taking it with highly satisfactory results."

"So far as my own case is concerned I have been in a run-down condition for a year or so, being easily fatigued, being troubled with sleeplessness. I lacked vitality and caught cold readily and my digestion and appetite were poor. I was depressed in mind and body and very nervous."

"I now feel stronger than for a long time. I have more energy and my weight is down with much less effort. I sleep and eat better and feel as though rejuvenated."

Tona Vita acts quickly. You will be surprised how rapidly it will build you up.

A. Clarke has the agency for Tona Vita in Connellsville and will return the purchase price if not entirely satisfactory. The Approved Formula Co., Dayton, O.

The Prodigal Judge

Written by
P. M. Kester

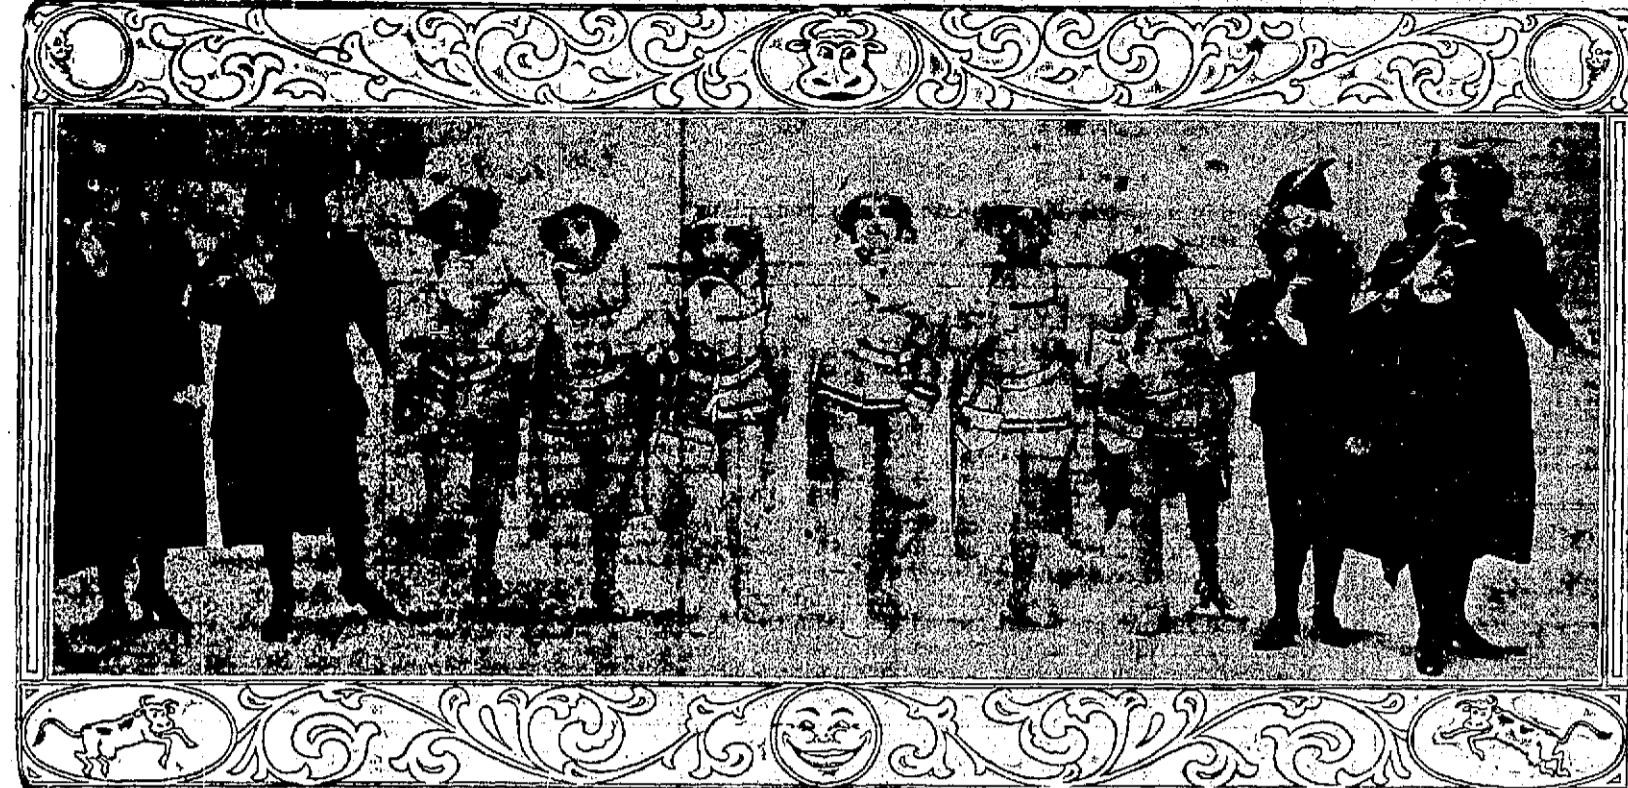

By
Vaughan Kester

(Copyright, 1911, The Back-Mill Company)

He sought to forecast the happenings of the next few hours. Murrell's friends would break jail for him, that was a foregone conclusion; but the insurrection he had planned was at an end. Wares had dealt its death blow. Moreover, though the law might be impotent to deal with Murrell, he could not hope to escape the vengeance of the powerful class he had plotted to destroy; he would have to quit the country. Ware glared in this idea of craven flight. Thank God, he had seen the last of him!

But, as always, his thoughts came back to Betty. Stosson would wait at Hicks' place for the man Murrell had promised him, and, failing the messenger, for the signal fire, but there would be neither; and Stosson would be left to determine his own course of action. Ware felt certain that he would wait through the night, but as sure as the morrow broke, if no word had reached him, he would send one of his men across the bayou, who must learn of Murrell's arrest, escape, flight—for in Ware's mind these three events were indissolubly associated. The planter's teeth knocked together. He was having a terrible acquaintance with fear. Its very depths had swallowed him up; it was a black pit in which he sank from horror to horror. He had lost all faith in the Klan which had terrorized half a dozen states, which had robbed and murdered with apparent impunity, which had marketed its hundreds of stolen slaves. He had utterly collapsed at the first blow dealt the organization, but he was still seeing Murrell pulled and shaken.

A step sounded in the hall and an instant later Hicks entered the room without the formality of knocking. Ware recognized his presence with a glance of indifference, but did not speak. Hicks slouched to his employer's side and handed him a note which was himself largely responsible for this.

The Soldiers in the The Man and the Moon's Army in "The Cow and the Moon" at the Soisson Theatre Friday Night.

"How do you know that?" demanded Ware.

"It is good as said so," Hicks looked uneasily at the planter. He knew himself to be compromised. The stranger named Cavendish had forced an admission from him that Murrell would not condone it if it came to his knowledge. He had also acquired a very proper and wholesome fear of Judge Slocum Price. He stepped close to Ware's side. "What'll come of the girl, Tom? Can you figure that out?"

It was in the tops of the old oaks now, which sent their shadows into his room. Again maddened by his terrors, he started and backed toward the door; but again his greed, the one dominating influence of his life, vanquished him.

He watched the sun sink. He watched the red splendor fade over the river; he saw the first stars appear. He told himself that Hicks would soon be gone—if the fire was not to be lit, he must act at once! He stoic to the window. It was dusk now, yet he could distinguish the distant wooded boundaries of the great fields framed by the darkening sky. Then in the silence he heard the thud of hoofs.

"Who's going to second you?" snapped Mahaffy.

The judge was a picture of indifference.

"It will be quite informal, the code is scarcely applicable; I merely intend to remove him because he is not fit to live."

"At sun-up!" muttered Mahaffy.

"I intend to start one day right even if I never live to begin another," said the judge, a sudden fierce light flashing from his eyes. "I feel that this is the turning point in my career, Solomon!" he went on. "The beginning of great things! But I shall take no chances, with the future; I shall prepare for every possible contingency. I am going to make you and Yancy my grandson's guardians. There's a hundred thousand acres of land hereabout that must come to him. I shall outline in writing the legal steps to be taken to substitute his claims. Also he will inherit largely from me at my death."

Something very like laughter escaped from Mahaffy's lips.

"There you go, Solomon, with your inopportune mirth! What in God's name have I if I haven't hope? Take that from me and what would I be? Why, the very fate I have been fighting off with tooth and nail would overwhelm me. I'd sink into importance—my unparalleled misfortunes would degrade me to a level with the commonest! No, sir, I've never been without hope, and though I've fallen, I've always got up. What Fentress has is based on money he stole from me. By God's days of his profit-taking are at an end! I am going to strip him. And even if I don't live to enjoy what's mine, my grandson shall! He shall wear velvet and a lace collar and ride his pony yet, by God, as a gentleman's grandson should!"

"It sounds well, Price, but where's the money coming from to push a law suit?"

The judge waved this aside. "The means will be found, Solomon. Our horizon is lifting—I can see it! Don't drag me back from the portal of hope! We'll drink the stuff that comes across the water; I'll warm the cockles of your heart with imported brandy. I carry twenty years' hunger and thirst under my waistcoat, and I'll feed and drink like a gentleman yet!" The judge smacked his lips in an ecstasy of enjoyment, and dropping down before the table which served him as a desk, seized a pen.

"It's good enough to think about, Price," admitted Mahaffy grudgingly.

To Be Continued.

"It Will Be Quite Informal, the Code Is Scarcely Applicable."

Mahaffy harshly. The judge shrugged his shoulders.

"That is as it may be."

"Have you forgotten your grandmother?" Mahaffy's voice was still harsh and rasping.

"I regard my meeting with Fentress as nothing less than a sacred duty to them both."

Hicks' eyes sparkled, but he only said:

"Make it twice that and maybe we can do it."

Racked and tortured, Ware heaved; but the sun was slipping into the west; his windows blazed with the hot light.

"You swear you'll do your part?" he said thickly. He took his purse from his pocket and counted out the amount due Hicks. He named the total, and paused irresolutely.

"Don't you want the fire lit?" asked Hicks. He was familiar with his employer's vacillating moods.

"You," answered Ware, his lips quivering; and slowly, with shaking fingers, he added to the pile of bills in Hicks' hand.

"Well, take care of yourself," said Hicks, when the count was complete. He thrust the roll of bills into his pocket and moved to the pito of bills in Hicks' hand.

BUREAU OF MINES HAS NEW PAPER ON NATURAL GAS

Liquid Products Subject of Interesting Document Issued by Government.

The Bureau of Mines has just issued Technical Paper No. 10, "Liquid Products From Natural Gas: Their Properties and Uses," by Irving C. Allen and George A. Durrell, in an effort to show how natural gas, which is being allowed to escape almost without restraint in almost all of the petroleum fields of the country, may be conserved.

The authors of the technical paper, in outlining their investigations, say:

"By fracturing natural gas, either during or after liquefaction, four products can be commercially obtained. Roughly, these four products may be described as follows: (1) The most important, the liquid hydrocarbons of commerce; (2) the semi-liquid product, known as the new 'wild' product, which should be used only as a heated gas and should be held in high pressure steel containers only; (3) the light liquid product, or light gasoline for blending with heavy naphtha; and (4), the heavy liquid product, or ordinary high grade gasoline.

The possibility of handling the second product in the way that Pintsch and Elau gases are handled, enabling small towns, hotels and country estates to have the advantage of gas illumination, manifestly opens a new field of comparatively great importance in the natural gas industry and should add materially to the investments made in the so-called 'natural gasoline' industry.

The liquefaction of gases by pressure is not a new industry but only recently has its application to natural gas been recognized as practicable.

"Up to the last two years the general practice in the manufacture of liquid natural gas was to make the product by compression of the gas in single-stage compressors operated at a pressure of 150 to 300 pounds per square inch. The one product obtained, so-called natural gasoline, was run into a tank and 'weathered.'

The weathering consisted in allowing the lighter portions to volatilize spontaneously and escape into the open air until such time as the boiling away of the liquid had practically ceased.

Thus the process involved a loss of 25 to 50 per cent or even more. This loss was an absolute waste, not only of power and of cost of operating the engines and compressors but of the product itself.

"The next step in the industry was to pass the waste gases (of which only the small quantity used for power had been utilized) from the single-stage compressor through a higher-stage compressor, thereby getting a second and more volatile product—a 'wilder' liquid—which was run back into the first and mixed with the first or heavier condensate. This mixture was then again weathered to a safe degree, whereby it lost the greater part of the more volatile product that had been condensed in the second stage.

"Recently the process had been improved another step, in that the first stage compressor product is run into our tank and handled as ordinary gasoline; the second compressor product is run into a second tank and handled as a lighter gasoline, with which the heavy refinery naphtha can be enriched or culled.

"The last-mentioned method of using the second stage compressor product should receive wide recognition, and a market for the product should develop that would be no mean factor in the industry. Blending in the proportions of, say, 1 part of the product to 4 or 5 parts of the refinery naphtha makes these heavy naphtha more volatile and of greater value as fuel for automobiles; it also greatly increases their general usefulness.

"The proportions to be used in blending however, must be determined definitely by test."

"The natural gas of this country frequently contains light products that do not condense in the second-stage compressor, and for which it is practical and necessary to install other, low, and even higher stage compressors. These light products—true gases at ordinary temperatures and pressures—can be compressed and liquefied, but the liquid gases so obtained must be handled as 'gases and not as oils.'

"The mistake heretofore made in the natural gas gasoline industry, as some have recognized, has been the attempt to handle the light gaseous products as oils and not as gases. Until the manufacturers of this lightest third or fourth stage compressor product recognize its gaseous nature, the absolute necessity for insuring the safety of the public involve certain restrictions in its transportation, and not until the realization that this extremely volatile liquid should be handled only in strong steel containers capable of withstanding high pressures will it be transported with safety."

Copies of this technical paper may be obtained by writing to the Director, Bureau of Mines, Washington, D. C.

How to act in an emergency is knowledge of inestimable worth, and this is particularly true of the diseases andills of the human body. If you suffer with backache, urinary disorders, or any form of kidney trouble, the advice contained in the following statement will add a valuable asset to your store of knowledge. What could be more convincing proof of the efficiency of Donn's Kidney Pills than the statements of nearby residents who have been permanently cured?

Mr. W. S. Edward, U.S. South Mount Vernon street, Uniontown, Pa., says: "I take pleasure in confirming the statements you gave in praise of Donn's Kidney Pills in October, 1911, and willingly allow its publication. ## SIX NEW FURNACES.

Steel Company Official Break Ground at Monessen.

MONESSEN, March 13.—With formal ceremonies officials of the Pittsburgh Steel Company broke ground for the two blast and four open-hearth furnaces which will be added to the local plant. W. C. Reitz, treasurer and J. C. Kohne, real estate agent, were here from Pittsburgh.

General Superintendent George Nash took the special shovel provided for the occasion and sank it deeply into the earth at the point where the center of No. 1 furnace will be located. Mr. Reitz dug the first shovelful of earth on the site of No. 2 furnace.

OVER NIGHT.

"Over Night," the laugh-compelling comedy, comes to the Soisson theatre Tuesday, March 19, direct from the Shubert theatre, Boston.

where it ran for three months to capacity houses. Created for laughing purposes only, it certainly fills the bill to the limit, for from the moment the curtain rises on the first scene of the opening act until the finale the audience is convulsed. It all happens over night and binges upon the blunders of two newly married couples on their honeymoon. From the moment that they set foot upon the steamer, and make the mistake about their baggage, whereby the husband of one and the wife of the other start up the Hudson, until the last curtain falls and their escapades are happily explained, there is laughter and fun in volumes and the audience is overwhelmed.

Between Jimmy Bliss, John Cromwell, Guy Oliver, Eliza and Vera May, who do most of the acting, "Baby Mine" was placed in good hands. The feminine members of the audience raved over the bedroom furnishings and other trimmings of the show. The acting was exceptionally clever.

The story of the play is simple and not particularly original. The originality consists in dragging something sacred out of the honest and throwing it across the rooftops for general consumption. Margaret Mayo, says she wrote "Baby Mine" in 30 days and she is first inclined to wonder what she did with them. However, the characters say just exactly what is expected of them, which requires greater ability than one would imagine. Miss Mayo evidently knew her subject well.

Farical developments are rampant around the domestic bickerings of the Eliza family. Alfred Hardy is one of those ridiculously old-fashioned young men who married with the absurd idea of having a home and a family, which doesn't in the least appeal to his pretty, frivolous little wife, Zola.

The first act opens with husband and wife in a verbal tilt, because Zola told a little white lie about her dinner the day previous. She had been to dinner with Jimmy Jinks, Hardy's best friend, but the explanation is far too simple for Zola, who must make a terrible tangle of falsehood, arose out of suspicion and jealousy of her husband and finally cause him to leave her.

The plot thickens. Mrs. Jinks, Jimmy's wife, suggests the adoption of a baby and the execution of the scheme is put up to Jimmy, who proceeds to tangle things up in such a manner that the proud father comes rushing home after a "four months" absence before or "shortly" has been secured. Jimmy resorts to kidnapping the baby, which causes the one baby to be multiplied into triplets. After working the climax to this point Miss Mayo evidently did not know what to do next, because the curtain is rung down on the final act with painful abruptness that even the previous hilarity and splendid acting cannot entirely overcome. If the finale of the play was as cleverly executed as the rest of it, "Baby Mine" would be much better.

Nothing is treated seriously. There are, however, sufficient Zolas and Alfreds in every audience to bring the story home. "Baby Mine" is particularly a play for married folks. There is nothing indecent about the play but it isn't one for young girls to see, speaking frankly. "Baby Mine" is of a subject that isn't supposed to be discussed outside the family circle, and in only a small part of it.

"THE COW AND THE MOON."

Charles A. Sallor's merriest of musical extravaganzas, "The Cow and the Moon" will be seen here at the Soisson theatre Friday, March 15. Mr. Sallor is duplicating his former success as a musical producer. Happy, Hank and Mike together with the beautiful Genie are the principal characters. The other characters include Great Dome, the ruler of the Moon, Patolea, an operatic star with whom Dome falls in love, Albert, true and fearless, Rosa the Cuban, Innocence the maid who never saw a man, Tropolis the wise man of the Rock, Pickelton, the General of the Man in the Moon's Army, the Moon demon, and Abon Eban, and Molly the sacred cow, together with some 35 other characters of more or less importance, but all help in the telling of the piece.

The scenes, some 16 in number, include as a starter a quiet domestic scene in little old rural Notchville, Indiana, where Dome comes to seek his Moon Bride; securing her all depart on their trip to the Moon, coming in Pullman palace sleeping car, where many ludicrous and funny situations take place. The next shows the train as it approaches apparently many miles away and gradually coming nearer, first as a little speck on the horizon, and gradually growing larger and larger until the locomotive rushes down to the footlights, a huge panting, spouting engine head on. All go to sleep and the next scene shows Happy and Innoc

Hot Race Between Trenton and Jasper to Meet Champion Jaws

With Trenton and Jasper getting away, it looks from this distance as though the Eastern League basketball league race would not be decided until the two leading meet in the final game. At present Trenton is leading by 21 points, or one game. Trenton has six games to play and Jasper five. Jasper travels to Trenton March 26 and Trenton plays at Jasper March 21.

According to the dope if Trenton wins its games from Camden, Del Norte, and Reading it could afford to break even with Jasper and still win the pennant. There is no danger of the leaders losing to either Reading or Camden but the De Nerd team, since Steve White has signed, has been the dark horse in the league. Jasper has all its remaining games except two on its home floor. At this stage it looks as if the game at Trenton on March 26 will decide the pennant.

The league presidents have not gotten together to make arrangements for the world's series. The first games will probably be played in Philadelphia because the Johnstown team will be barnstorming in the east at that time.

From a Central-league standpoint, the series will be nothing but Johnstown. The Jaws undoubtedly have one of the best balanced teams in the history of the game.

The series will be more closely contested than that of last year when McKeever walked away with De Nerd. At present Trenton is in a weakened condition. At a game at Middletown Monday night Getzinger was poked in the eye, necessitating the services of a physician. He will be able to play in a few days, it is said. With Getzinger andough in the lineup, the Trenton team is liable to make some noise in the world's series.
